

Scouting Service

Charles Mader was presented the CROSS AND FLAME AWARD for scouting service through the United Methodist Church at the Methodist Men's meeting on September 5. Mr. Mader, seen here with his wife Emma Jean and a current scout leader, Dennis Gill, was for 10 years the scoutmaster of Troop 122, now under the leadership of Scoutmaster Dick Martin. During Mr. Mader's tenure, many boys had a scouting experience with a distinctly Christian flavor. Numerous boys became Eagle Scouts. Congratulations, Mr. Mader, on a job well done!

Honoring teachers

Chuck Mader pins a corsage on his wife Emma Jean who is one of 13 retiring from the Los Alamos School district this year.

The teachers were honored Friday night in the Los Alamos Community Building.

Emma Jean Mader

The last six years of Emma Jean Mader's 23½-year teaching career with the Los Alamos schools have been spent at Aspen School.

Mader was graduated from the University of Wyoming in 1951. She also has attended universities in Colorado and New Mexico.

Before joining the local district, Mader taught in Woland, Wyo.
